"We are excited to be bringing Flogging Molly to the Thomas & Mack Center as part of the first ever Dublin Down Festival," said TMC Executive Director Mike Newcomb. "Along with our partners at Justice Entertainment Group (JEG) we plan to create a unique St. Patrick’s Day event and finish the evening with Flogging Molly on the main stage in Thomas & Mack."

Flogging Molly will be nearing the final stop on their Green 17 Tour 2012 when they get to Las Vegas. The "green carpet" will be rolled out when they bring their infusion of punk rock with Celtic instruments - violin, mandolin and the accordion, and merge blues progressions with grinding guitars and traditional Irish music. The infectious originality of their songs will surely help all Dublin Down Festival revelers “paint Las Vegas green.” Additional artists and special guests will be announced in the near future.

The Dublin Down Festival will also include an outside stage to rock out to live Irish bands, vendors, food and plenty of pints of the pride of Ireland.
